Competency and Qualities Framework
Welcome to the new Competency and Qualities Framework (CQF) for the Prison Service.

The CQF competencies describe behaviours that the Prison Service encourages among its staff. It is designed to enable employees at Senior Manager A and below – and their managers – to know what is expected of them in terms of clear and observable indicators of behaviour that apply across most situations they are likely to face. It does not describe ‘what’ has to be done but ‘how’ they should be done. The way in which people interact with each other in performing their duties – especially those in authority – has a significant impact on the culture of the organisation which not only impacts on staff but also on prisoners.

The CQF has been developed by the Prison Service to reflect:

- Prison Service values;
- The law;
- Current and prospective business requirements;
- The Prison Service’s commitment to equality and diversity;
- Professional Skills for Government (PSG) core skills and leadership expectations.
The structure of the CQF

The framework consists of twelve behavioural competences, grouped under three headings:
- WORKING PROFESSIONALLY
- WORKING WITH OTHERS
- WORKING TO ACHIEVE RESULTS

To enable clear, evidenced and consistent judgements to be formed about the extent to which someone is demonstrating each of the competencies, the framework provides examples of the specific actions, observable in day-to-day work, that we might expect a competent person to be taking. Those actions form the indicators within each competency. By considering to what extent, and in what way, someone can be seen to be carrying out those actions, we can form a view on that person’s overall behaviour; and so, in turn, decide whether that behaviour fits the given definition of competency.

The actions that people are expected to take in order to demonstrate competency will differ, depending on the person’s role and responsibilities. For this reason, within each competency, the CQF presents different sets of indicators for:

1. ALL STAFF – foundation indicators that apply to all staff in the Prison Service regardless of their role
2. ALL STAFF WHO REGULARLY WORK DIRECTLY WITH PRISONERS – these are used in addition to the foundation indicators above
3. MANAGERS – one of three different sets apply depending on their management level. These are:
   a. First line manager (SO, EO etc)
   b. Middle management (generally PO, managers G-E)
   c. Senior management (generally senior managers A-D)

So, for example, for a Prison Officer, groups 1 and 2 will apply, while for a non-operational manager G, indicator groups 1 and 3b will apply. Exceptionally, it might be appropriate to make use of certain indicators from a different indicator set - see separate guidance on using the CQF in SPDR development planning, recruitment and filling vacancies.

The framework also provides some illustrations of activities the Service would not expect to see a competent person undertaking. By providing a contrast to the behaviours described in the indicators, these illustrations should help people to form a clearer and stronger idea of what positive behaviour looks like.

How should the CQF be used?

The CQF is designed to support:

- The Staff Performance and Development Review (SPDR) – the CQF replaces the existing Core Competence Framework (CCF) previously used in the development section of the SPDR form. Separate guidance on how to use this framework as part of the SPDR assessment will be available for staff and managers.
- Recruitment and selection – job information packs will need to reflect a representative set of the required competencies for the role and candidates will need to demonstrate competency at application and interview.
- Job Simulation Assessment Centres (JSACS) – the new CQF replaces the Core Management Skills previously used for assessment of candidates
- Leadership development – the competencies required for strategic leadership support the new Leadership Qualities Framework for the Service (see below)
- Learning and development – learning and skills provision will be reviewed to support the staff in developing key competencies throughout their career in the Prison Service.
How does this link to other leadership and professional skills development programmes?

1. Leadership Qualities Framework
   Leadership development, including 360 degree feedback exercises, will be based on the Leadership Qualities Framework (LQF). Not all of the characteristics that define leadership excellence can be described in terms of the behavioural indicators found under the twelve competencies in the CQF. They relate to people’s attitudes and perceptions, as well as to what they do. The LQF has therefore been developed, as an enhanced version of the CQF. It comprises four Leadership Qualities:

   ![Diagram of Leadership Qualities: Purpose, Building Community, Astuteness, Courage]

   Every detailed element of the LQF maps back to one or more indicators in the CQF. The output of JSACs and other selection exercises can be mapped against Leadership Qualities as well as behavioural competencies.

2. Professional Skills for Government
   The framework includes, among the indicators for Senior Management, customised versions of the Professional Skills for Government ‘Core Skills’ requirements, set by the Civil Service Management Board for all Civil Servants at grade 6 and 7 and equivalent levels (our Senior Managers A-D). These are highlighted in italics. In addition, many of the other indicators also support the Core Skills requirements.
