

Section 10

Supporting documents

You may have additional documents to those filed by the appellant to support your appeal or your request to vary or uphold the order. These should be in a bundle and filed with your respondent's notice.

Do not delay filing your respondent's notice at the appeal court. If you have not been able to obtain any of the documents that you wish to file with your notice, complete the notice as best you can and ensure that it is filed on time.

Your bundle should include any of the following (unless they are already included in the bundle filed by the appellant):-

- ◆ your respondent's notice and any skeleton argument (if separate);
- ◆ any witness statements or affidavits in support of any application included in Sections 5 or 9 of your notice or in a separate Part 23 application notice;
- ◆ any other affidavit or witness statement filed in support of your arguments; and
- ◆ any other documents directed by the court to be filed in the appeal.

You should remember that if you file any of the documents at a later date, you must check whether or not the information you are providing alters any of the details already given in your respondent's notice. If it does, you will need to apply to the court for permission to amend the notice. The court can tell you how to do this.
