

court. You may have to pay additional fees if it is filed at a later date than your respondent's notice.

The types of application you might want to make will include:

- ◆ amending (make changes to) your respondent's notice after it has been filed at court. But note that you can amend your skeleton argument (even if it is set out in part 7 of your notice) without making an application;
- ◆ asking the appeal court to issue a stay on executing the order or suspend any action in the case pending the outcome of the appeal. (You do not need to do this if you have already obtained a stay from the lower court or the appeal is from the Immigration Appeal Tribunal.);
- ◆ producing new evidence in the appeal or asking for permission to produce oral evidence at the appeal hearing. You will need to give reasons why the new evidence was not before the original court and, where oral evidence is requested, the reasons why you think it is necessary;
- ◆ asking for security for costs, ie that the appellants be ordered to pay a sum of money into court sufficient to cover any costs the appellants may be ordered to pay in the appeal.